

Customs welcomes new Chief Executive and Comptroller of Customs

Customs officially welcomed its new Chief Executive and Comptroller of Customs, Ms Carolyn Tremain, on Monday 19 September.

Carolyn replaces Martyn Dunne who resigned in April 2011 to take up the post of High Commissioner in Canberra.

Carolyn comes to Customs from Inland Revenue where she was Deputy Commissioner Service Delivery, responsible for the frontline service delivery functions of the Department including customer operations, customer and product innovation, contact centres, audit and investigations, litigation management, and the integration of new government programmes.

Carolyn has held senior management roles in the public and private sectors for nearly eighteen years.

Carolyn plans to implement a programme of regular visits to key stakeholders to keep Customs connected with industry views and activities.

We welcome Carolyn to the New Zealand Customs Service
